

History of Anthropology Newsletter

Volume 27
Issue 1 June 2000

Article 9

1-1-2000

Gleanings From Academic Gatherings

This paper is posted at ScholarlyCommons. <http://repository.upenn.edu/han/vol27/iss1/9>
For more information, please contact repository@pobox.upenn.edu.

The divisive legacy of the 1898 Cambridge Anthropological Expedition," 345-58; Allan Young, "W.H.R. Rivers and the War Neuroses," 359-78; Huon Wardle, "Gregory Bateson's lost world: The anthropology of Haddon and Rivers continued and deflected," 379-90.

White, N.M., L.P. Sullivan & R.A. Marrinan, eds., 1999. Grit tempered: Early women archaeologists in the southeastern United States. Gainesville: University Press of Florida [ABK]

Wilson, R. 1999. Visions and voices. Anthropology Today 15 (#6, Dec.):20-21 [report of a conference on the 50th anniversary of the Dept. of Anthro., University of Manchester]

Wolf, Josef. 1998. The origin and development of Czech ethnology. Annals of the Náprstek Museum 19:65-82. Prague [WCS]

Young, Biloine. 2000. Cahokia: The great Native American metropolis. Urbana: University of Illinois Press [an "as-told-to" history based on interviews, rich in biographical details of the archeologists and who-knew-them—ABK]

Zapatero, G.R. 1998. La distorsión totalitaria: Las 'raíces prehistóricas' de la España franquista. R. Huertas & R. Ortiz, eds., Ciencia y fascismo, 147ff. Madrid: Doce Calles.

ABK= Alice Kehoe

DRG=Douglas Givens

IB=Ira Bashkow

RDF= Raymond Fogelson

WCS= William Sturtevant

FZ=Franco Zerilli

GLEANINGS FROM ACADEMIC GATHERINGS

Hellenism, history, and ethnography in the early Roman empire—A conference on this topic was held at the Franke Institute for the Humanities, University of Chicago, on February 4th and 5th, 2000. The papers presented were "From Herodotus to Diodorus: The Transformation of Ethnography," by Suzanne Saïd; "Polybius as Prototype: Hellenism, Barbarism and the Construction of the Roman," by Craig Champion; "Civilizing the Macedonians: Greco-Roman Ethnography in Dio and Arrian," by Sulochana Asirvatham; "Strabo and the Ancient Foundations of Modern Anthropogeography," by Edward Dandrow; "Isis is a Greek Word: Plutarch and the Gods of the Barbarians," by Daniel Richter; "Geography without Territory: Tacitus' Digression on the Jews and its Ethnographic Context," by René Bloch; "Narratives of 'Going Native' in Imperial Greek Historiography," by Kenneth Mayer; "The Hellene in the Court of the Foreign King in Greek Fiction," by Sandra Schwartz; and "The Rhetoric of Cultural Space: A Reading of Heliodorus' Representations of Ethiopia," by Jon Berry.

Anthropology and Africa: a cross-colonial investigation—A conference on this topic was held at Oxford University on March 10th, 11th, and 12th, 2000. Papers scheduled to be presented included "The Geopolitics of Anthropology in Africa," by Henrika Kuklick; "From Political Intelligence to Colonial Anthropology: Ethnography in the Sudan Intelligence Reports and Sudan Notes and Records," by Douglas Johnson; "Italian Anthropology and the Africans: The Colonial Period," by Barbara Sorgoni; "Internationalization and Scientific Nationalism: The International Institute of African Languages and Cultures Between the Wars," by Benoit de l'Estoile; "Between Colonial Government and Museum Collection: The Fieldwork of Karle Weule in German East Africa," by Andrew Zimmerman; "Localizing the Waluguru: A History of Anthropology and Local Government in Tanganyika, 1925-1960," by Peter Pels; "The Power of Grammar: Anthropology and Linguistics among German Africanists, 1918-1930," by Sara Pugach; "Missionary Ethnography in the Belgian Congo, 1890-

Congo, 1890-1960," by Vincent de Rooij; "Infertility Scars and the Sciences of Eugenics and Anthropology in the French and Belgian Congo," by Nancy Hunt; "Leo Frobenius and the Olokun Affair: Professionalism, Nationalism, and Excess in German Ethnography," by Glenn Penny; "Towards Autonomy of a West African Field of Research: From Educated Informant to Scientific Author," by Jean-Hervé Jezequel; "The Elusive Bureau of Colonial Ethnography: Colonial Experience and Ethnographic Terrain in France, 1906-1930," by Emmanuelle Sibeud; "The Advancement of African Studies in Berlin by the 'German Research Foundation,' 1920-1945, by Hoelger Stoecker; "Anthropology in the Time of ChaChaCha: the Rhodes-Livingstone Institute and Central Africa Politics, 1955-1965," by Lyn Schumaker; "Anthropology on High: Anthropologists at the International Court of Justice," by Robert Gordon.

HAN ON THE WEB

As a result of the restructuring of the University of Chicago Department of Anthropology website, to which the HAN website has been attached, there was an interruption in the accessibility of the HAN website. We are now again accessible at the following web address, which you may care to bookmark:

<http://anthropology.uchicago.edu/han/Default.htm>

If you wish to be included in the list of subscribers on our website, please send you name, title, address (including, if you wish, fax and email), along with key word indications of your research interests to:

g-stocking@uchicago.edu

Since this list will be public information for anyone using the internet, we will list only those individuals who authorize us to do so.